

CHATEAU DIANA WINERY

Proud of our People

Our biggest asset at Chateau Diana is our people! Beginning in the vineyard and ending with the bottled wine, every person is focused on the same mission. We have the right people with the right talent in the right job. Chateau Diana employs half the number of people as other wineries its size. This leanness creates an intensity that drives problem-solving and promotes rapid response to issues.

“Everyone on our team has something to offer and no single person or idea dominates our growth. We grow more as a group than we could alone.”

Corey Manning
President
Chateau Diana Winery

Our winery family is made up of unique individuals with very different strengths who work together as a whole. There exists a mutual respect for each other within the company that leads to creative problem-solving. We are composed of self-driven, self-sufficient, hard-working and generous people who are focused on the potential of Chateau Diana.

Proud of our Winery

Chateau Diana Winery and production facility rests along Dry Creek Road amidst one of the premier growing regions of California - the Dry Creek Valley. The well-drained fertile soil produces flavorful grapes. Long exposure to direct afternoon sun intensifies the varietal character of the wines. Vineyards with indirect sun exposure ultimately create wines with greater complexity. And cool temperatures at night slow the maturation process which contributes to wine balance.
